A note from the director...

So, this is my debut attempt at directing a production; I'm impressed by the way it's turned out. I've been working on this production since March with the younger cast (and Jack). Everyone has been so supportive and has helped out in any way they can. Huge thanks go to the parents of the younger "Pevensie" children for getting their children to rehearsal and in some cases stretching beyond those duties in helping the young cast back stage, you've been great; especially Julia who stepped in to be Queen Susan for me at the last moment. I'm very pleased with Jack (our Peter) who has amazed and delighted me at rehearsal with his willingness to learn, be at extra rehearsals and at how well he has been able to adapt so very well to a mix of "siblings", week in and week out, so thank you Jack, may you get many more excellent roles. Massive thanks go to the rest of the cast, I'm grateful for their ideas and suggestions and thrilled at the response when suggesting ideas back at them. My final amazingly huge thanks go to the Stage Crew, they have been working solidly pretty much since March when I started rehearsing and the scenery is so fantastic I feel that you will be able to immerse yourself in the scenery and feel right there in Narnia with the cast. Thanks to Kevin for making my imagination a reality and for putting up with my random outbursts. That's about all for my wittering on, please sit back and enjoy the play. Many thanks

Charlotte xxx

A note from behind the curtains. . . .

As this has been somewhat of a mammoth period of set construction, I thought I would share some thoughts from backstage.

It seems as though we have been building the set for the production forever - and thinking back, we did router out the trees back in late February (before we built the set for the last show). There are so many scenes in the show, I tried to create a set that depicted the location and atmosphere without unduly delaying the action with scene changes (though it is quite a short show).

As such we had some large items of scenery to build - a wardrobe, the sleigh, the stone table and Tumnus/beavers house; as well as lots of smaller items - the stone statues, banners, some new steps and rostra, and of course the trees (and lamppost). Luckily Elliot joined us over the summer period, and took over a lot of the detailed painting allowing the rest of us to focus on constructing the set.

And I was also side tracked into making Tumnus' trousers and hooves (Martin looked lovely in his size 10 high heels).

We concluded by rigging the lighting (and surprisingly are using 42 channels of lighting - the most we used since I've been here (some 30 yrs), and setting out the sound.

This has been a lot of effort from the crew over many months, and we hope you enjoy the sets and settings as well the acting.

Kevin

PS: If you would like to join us, we are always delighted to have new stage crew - especially with no previous experience.
